

That Hamilton Woman, Alexander Korda, GB, 1941

-Gavin, that picture there, the van Dyck. It crooked, don't you see? I've told you about it twice already. Why don't you put it straight?

-I guess, Sir.

-Here, Sir?

-Good, Gavin, good. It's good to have my pictures around me once more. And my statues. But they, they need more light, more room. We must re-arrange them.
